Strikes, murders, and orines of every and one constantly on the increase from one side of France to the other; and half a dozen attempts of the anarchists to employ dynamite for the furtherance of their schemes, having been made on various points in England, the rejoicing comments with which every such incident on the other side of the Channel is signalised. and dwelt on by the French press and public, may possibly be somewhat diluted by the necessity of chronicling similar events in la belle France. Meantime much unessiness is felt in regard to the stagnation of trade, the great amount of existing distress, and the fact that saveral poor wretches have recently died of hunger in this luxurious city; and the abundant evidence of want and of dissatisfaction elicited from the representatives of the various indusabandant evidence of want and of dissatisation elicited from the representatives of the various industrial interests that have been the subject of investigation by the committee of inquiry appointed by the Chamber of Deputies to assertian the cause of the present depression, has added to the general sense of inaccurity, and the growing conviction that a violent secial upheaving is already looming in the future. Outlonally enough, the evidence furnished to the committee of longity shows that only one of the many it trades of Paris is in a flourishing state; this happy exception to the general state of alackness and discongregment being the dressmaking department. When the committee examined the delegates of the syndicate of dressmakers, of whom the world-renowned Worth is cons, they were assured that no crisis exists in their particular branch of industry, which needs a inter help nor protection. There are, in Paris alone 2000 firms in the dressmaking line, employing 50,000 workwomen, whose average wages are 8 france 50 centimes per day. The total yearly amount of wages and salaries paid out in this line in this city is 40,000,000 of france; the business done represents 250 millions per annum.

The Parliamentary Committee referred to has been examining M. River, the president of the Syndical Chamber of the Markets of Paris, who is an ardent protectionist, and tries to trace the examing conditions of the working classes to the treaties of commerce of 1860, it is working classes to the treaties of commerce of 1860.

This must not be regarded as an isolated case picked out for the sake of effect or sensation. It is but one of many. Let time quote another—they are not difficult to find. A youman named Mace, who had already murdered two of her legitimate children, was transported for life to New Caledonia. She was lately married to a concessionaire in the island, and now, "comme remerciment a la societé qui ne l'a pur guillofinee" she has murdered her third child. For this third finfanticide she receives a similar sentence to that which she did for the second.

The women's convict establishment at Boursil is to a great extent in the hands of a community of Sisters of Mercy, who superintend the "giving in marriage" portion of the duties appertaining to officers of the prison. It has never been related that a convict who wast a-courting to the prison asked for any certificate of character when he chose his wife; but if he were to do so it is very doubtful whether he would be much enlightened as to her temper and moral conduct in the past. Some of the statistiques drawn up by the Government of t enlightened as to her temper and moral conduct in the past. Some of the statistiques drawn up by the Government officials state the conduct and morality of one shild-murderer to be "exemplary," and of another child-murderer it is related that her "conduct is excellent."

Only concessionaires of the first class are permitted. Only concessionaires of the first class are permitted to choose wives, and the ceremony is often very amusing. At stated times sli who desire to wed are conveyed to the prison, where they are admitted to a floom, and the women are drawn up in a row. It is said that the Sisters of Mercy set about the affair in a business-like manner, and range up the older and plainer women—the "stale goods" in fact—first. A souviet who has his wits about him is not to be put off in this way, and after passing along the line, he will any, "These are too old, bring me some young neet," and then the old goods are taken any in the sum of the river would not be affected, as its equilibrium would entering the preserved intact. I am, &c., FRED. B. GIPPS. eas," "These are too old, bring me some young enes," and then the old goods are taken eff, and the young girls, some of them fine buxom wenches, are submitted for approval. When the choice, which generally depends wholly on good physique and looks, is made, the marriage estemony follows, and then the woman leaves the prison for the home of her fundand. When a girl is made an offer of marriage it is a very rare thing indeed for her to estate to week, no matter who the suitor may be. Semestime, however, the girls bargain a good deal before they consent; and apropos of that, the following little anecdots was related to me:—

A very bashful young convict had at last made up his mind to have a wife, and when the time arrived he set out for Bourail full of valour and determination. It was brave enough before his fellow-men, but coavessation with a woman had become so remote a matter that when he entered the room he felt completely dumbfounded. The sisters nearly succeeded in trading off upon this overwhelmed young convict an ancient and then the old dumbfounded. The sisters nearly succeeded in trading off upon this overwhelmed young convict an ancient dame of 55 years, who hadn't a tooth in her head; but he seesped, and eventually selected a stalwart matter-of-fact-looking gril, whom he thought would be a useful, if not a particularly good, wife. They retired to an ante-room to discuss the matter "quietly," and the young convict followed out the proposition so literally that he sat on a chair gazing at his betrothed blankly, without uttering a word. The future bride set opposite to him wafting for him to "speak up," but not a word lift he say. At last she could bear it no longer, and abruptly quaried,

"Well, what have you got to say; eh?"
The young convict still regarded his love with dull eyes, but from his open mouth fell no words.
"Got a house, eh?"
"Yes," faintly said the lover.
"Got any haricots and maire?"
"Yes,"
"Got a meanife surfain?"

"Got a mosquite curtain ?"

"The come along." And she marched him off to be married. The problem of what will be the character of the

The problem of what will be the character of the offspring of these married convicts is one which does not appear to have presented itself to the French Government. They cannot surely hope that out of the element of vice will spring the virtues and tendencies of good lives. The children of these people will be free colonists, who have been brought up in a home from which, with such women as have been spoken of few methers, it can scarcely be hoped viciouances and will are not associated. It will be as if the French Government chose for its free immigrants the men and women whose early lives had been spent in the lowest quarters of Paris. Sir,—According to the shost resume of Mr. James' proposal for the relief of the drought in the vicinity of the Yanko and Colombo Creeks, in your columns of too day, it appears that he would divert the stream of the Murruntidigee filiver into a canal, by constructing a fixed well across its bed. He asserts that this would not, to any appreciable extent, lessen its volume or interfers with navigation.

As the treatment of our river system is one of the most momentous questions of the day, the full importance of which can hardly be appreciated by the present generation, I trust I may be allowed to draw especial attention to the above project.

The indigenous game cannot live in the malles during a drought any more than they can on the plains. A turkey, on our approach, was too weak to fly, and lay down behind a bush a foot high; a blue kangaroo bad tried in value to reach a small tank, and lay helps less within a yard of it; but the imported pest Bunny bounced up fat and strong from behind a porcupine tussock, and acudded with ears erect into the mearest thick cover. I dropped upon what I thought afforded a feasible explanation of this some days after. The roots of the porcupine are, I was told, succulent and free from prickles. It is possible that in these the rabbits find shelter and food that enable them to do without water. At all events, it is pretty certain that the rabbits can At all events, it is pretty certain that the rabbits can breed and thrive in the malles country, while the native game are dying of starvation.

The area of malles in the colony must be consider-

The area of malles in the colony must be considerable. It begins on the eastern bank of the Darling, opposite Menindie, and keeps parallel with the river two or three miles back from the frontage, forming a belt of from 25 to 60 miles wide of greater or less density, and taking a corresponding position on the Murray, between Balranald and the South Australian boundary. All this worse than worthless country is comprised in "the pastoral estate of New South Wales," and is rated as worth the minimum rent.

The malles country in Victoria contains, it is ead, a much greater proportion of available surface, and yet it has been found necessary to grant these lands under long leases at a nominal reatal, so that tenants may be induced to deal with the rabbits and utilize the country. Our other neighbour, South Australia, has suffered equally, for the great central camps from which the pest spreads lie all contiguous in the malles and on the river banks.

BATCRDAY, MAY 24, 1884.

In the Legislative Assembly yesterday, Ministers answered the questions of which notice had been given.

The City Bank Bill was referred to a Select Committee for inquiry and report, on the motion of Mr.

Leave was given to Mr. STUART to introduce the Sydney Corporation Loan Bill, which was brought up and read a first time. The motion that the second reading of the bill be made an order of the day for Tuesday next was agreed to on division by 33 to 2.

The Oyster Fisheries Bill was read a third time and passed, and it was ordered that it be forwarded to the Legislative Council for its concurrence. The Biandford Estate Bill was brought up and read

Mr. O'Cosson, under a motion for the adjournment of the House, directed the attention of the Governm of the House, directed the attention or the Coverament to the fact that some satiors who, in the interests of justice, had given evidence voluntarily at a coroner's inquest, had been put in Davlinghurst gool because they had been unable to obtain sureties for their attend-ance as witnesses at the Criminal Court. It appeared that the satiors should not have been put in a price, even if it had been necessary to place them under

In a debate which followed, and in which Mr. BUCHANAN, Mr. DIBBS, Mr. POOLN, Mr. ABIGALL, Mr. ABIGATL, Mr. ABIGATL, Mr. GABRAUD, Mr. STORNS, Mr. WRIGHT, Mr. BURNS, and Mr. STURET took part, various matters were referred to, inclusive of the financial policy and public works policy of the Govern-ment, the obligations of Ministers to remain in the Chamber to listen to the debates, the manner in which the electoral lists for St. Leonards had been revised by the Revision Court, and the desirableness of checking assisted immigration till the return of more prosperous

Mr. Dinns accused Mr. Buchanan of being animated by ill-feeling against the Government because his brother, who was an officer in the Customs, had not received promotion, and that he could have rivetted the hon, gentleman to the support of the financial policy of the Government by acceding to his wishes in the matter, but which he had declined to do.

Mr. BUCHANAN denied the truth of the statements the Colonial Treasurer, and subsequently gave notice of a resolution for the production of copies of all the papers relating to the application of his brother for

Mr. Stuant said he would cause inquiry to be made into the cases of the sailors which had been brought before the House by Mr. O'Connor. He also stated, in answer to Mr. Garrard and other hos. members, that he had taken stops not to stop, but such as he thought were prudent to check, assisted immigration till the city had been freed from the unsupplyed. In a large city there would always be persons who would be unemployed, but it was easy to distinguish them from bena-tide working-men. The whole matter of immigration required careful watching, and he could not help suggesting that the condition of the colony would have been very bad if it had not been for their assisted immigration, without which public works could not have been carried on. The registry for assisted immigrants had been opened, because it was clearly the duty of the Government to get the immigrants away from the ships and employed as early an possible. The registry had already proved of great service, and last week applications were made to it by employers for 50 per cent. more labour than could be obtained.

Mr. O'CONNOR, in replying, said he thought the imprisoned sailors should be lodged at a boarding-house, or placed on board the Wolverins.

The motion for the adjournment was put and negatively.

m the motion of Mr. SLATTERY, and passed through committee, with an amendment.

Mr. STUART laid on the table a copy of correspondence on the subject of immigration, and it was ordered merous orders of the day were postponed, in con-

The strong support given to Mr. BROADnt Bill in the House of Commons is a noteworthy sign of the times, which may not be without importance in Australia also. Mr. BROADHURST is the well-known secretary to the Parliamentary Committee of the Trades Union Congress, and has earned for himself the respect and esteem of both parties during the few years in which he has been a member of Parliament. Any measure, consequently, which is introduced by Mr. BROADHURST, is to express the carefully considered views of the most intelligent and influential ortion of the English working classes; and it is natural to suppose that the working classes in Australia would endorse his action if occasion should arise. The object of the bill is to enable any person having an un-expired term of 20 years of a lease of any house to purchase the fee-simple. But in order to prevent the exercise of this right from being oppressive to the land-lord, or a nuisance to the neighbourhood, it is provided that the tenant or leaseholder is not to be entitled to deduct from the valuation of the house improvements which he has himself voluntarily made, or to be allowed to use nery of the county courte uses, or by any other means, is not in the same degree a public enemy?" Some have even gone so far as to assert that it is as undesirable permit private ownership in land as it would be undesirable to permit individuals to monopolise the air we breathe. But Mr. BROADHURST's bill gives no sanction to this doctrine. It is, on the contrary, a most emphatic assertion of the right of ownership. Of all the evils of the English system of land tenure (and the English system only prevails in America and other English colonies), the practice of divided ownership has been most generally condemned. This is particularly generally condemned. This is particularly the case in respect of house property, owing to the well-known custom of letting land on building leases. The leasee only obtains a temporary interest in the land, and he is under a strong temptation to make the most out of his property. As a result he puts up houses which will just hold together during the term of his lease, and no longer; so that, as was said during the debate in the House of Commons, "The system of building leases has degraded, if not ruined, the art of housebuilding throughout the country." Lease-hold ground is only too often covered with houses that can scarcely be called houses at all, and which are not fit for human beings to live in. This is especially the case with the houses of the poorer classes, on whom the system presses also with another burden. The worst built houses are naturally the first to fall to pieces; but under the leasehold system the lessee has no interest in putting them in a decent state of repair. In cases it would cost him more to do so than to surrender his whole interest in the property without compensation. Under such circumstances there is only one remedy-to discourage the system of building leases, and, as far as the law can do so, to the occupier of a house its owner. Such a measure would not involve confiscation because full value would be given for existing leases, and for the future building leases need not be created; nor is there any fear that landowners would not sell for building purposes. A certain amount of land will always be in the market for building pur-poses, whenever it is more profitable to sell it law, the theory that a man's house is his castle may be more of a reality. The PRIMATE's recent speech in answer to the address from the Londoners' Club is the most critical he has yet delivered in Sydney, censuring plainly as it did a too prevalent characteristic—indifference to the best things, whether of the mind or of the body. In the old days of the colony, when the luxuries of life which to an educated man make up three-quarter's of his necessarie could hardly be procured, it became a virtue to "make out" with the best shift that came to hand, and a readiness to dispense even with ordinary conveniences was of itself The Windsor Gesworks Bill was road a second time. merit. But times are altered now. Rapid communication with Europe, and the growth satisfying the higher instincts in matters of thought and feeling, and also in that outward seemliness and decorum in the mode of living which is in itself an emblem Numerous orders of the day were postponed, in consequence of the pancity of attendance of hon members.

Mr. R. B. SMITH moved that the House go into Committee of the Whole to consider a resolution are specifing a proposed appropriation for the erection of a presenting a proposed appropriation for the erection of a bridge over the Nambuccers river.

Attention was called to the state of the House, and owing to the want of a quorum the Deputy, Speaker, at 6.55 p.m., declared the House adjourned to 4 p.m. on Tuesday made.

Thesian rank of the pancity of attendance of hon members indeed of living which is in itself an emblem of spiritual beauty. Nevertheless, one of the first things which has struck the Bishop as a people, we put up with what is second-made. If it is only colonial, and therefore you must not expect too much. This is the sentiment which the Bishop has already heard timent which the BISHOP has already heard too often, and upon which he has lately made a most emphatic comment. Inferiority is not We have natural advantages which more than compensate for the lack of age and experience; but we are undoubtedly deticient in the exercise of those qualities through which we might fully utilise our opportunities. Moreover, we have grown into the habit of taking almost a pride in our deficiencies, and excusing them upon the ground of some for this purpose than to use it for cultivation.

Possibly such a bill is not so much needed in this country as in England (although even in Sydney there are grim rumours that some of city are built on a 14 years' leasehold !), but its proposal is none the less a fact of great significance. Should it eventually b

Aigns of this characteristic can be met on every side. For example if side. For example, if we except the Prince Alfred Hospital, the offices of the Colonial Secretary, the Lands Office and the Post-office, there is hardly one of our public institutions which is not more or less of a makeshift. The Supreme Court, the Houses of Parliament, the Public Library, the Art Gallery, the Railway Station, the wharfage accommodation-none of these needs any descriptive words of disparagement. As with our public buildings, so with many of our private houses. It would require the pen of a SWINBURNE to give a right idea of the appalling ugliness of some Sydney residences; an ugliness which only finds a parallel in the the freshold for any other purpose than that absurdity of the internal arrangements. In indicated in the original lease tor, at all any suburb we might pick out accres of events, such a number of years as the lease was houses huddled together in unsavoury tergranted for. All purchases, moreover, are to be effected through the cheap and easy machiunprovided with fit arrangements for health or decency. But for one man who is ready was supported by 104 members, among whom were Lord Randolph Churchill and other Conservatives. The principle of the measure is undoubtedly winning increased support every year. Even those should not look forward to having better things some day, and even urgs the Governments. increased support every year. Even those should not look forward to having better who are content to stand in the ancient things some day, and even urge the Governways must perfore admit the growing tenways must perfore admit the growing tendency to favour special legislation in the public interest with regard to land. The day is past when a landowner can deal with his land as if it were any other species of property. Public opinion would no leaser things some day, and even trige the Government to introduce them soon. At all events, it is no answer to one who complains of these things to be reminded (as he too often is) of the time when bullock-drays were the only means of locomotion. Happily, those days are past. In our exultation at a slothful estimate of our national capacities to affect our moral and intellectual vigour. We too readily put up with second-rate performances at the theatre, we are content with mediocre preachers, we exact no high standard from our public officers, and in every walk of life we regard ability and a high aim as something remarkable, and worthy of exceptional praise. If, on the contrary, we had from the first a high standard of excellence, others would take us at our own estimate, and we should receive better treatment from every quarter. The colonies would no longer be regarded as a shooting-ground for European rubbish, and there among ourselves a stronger sense of personal responsibility for public failings. It is as true of a nation as of an individual—"Selflove is not so vile a sin as self-neglect."

The letter of our Paris correspondent published on Wednesday last contains matter of nore promise than any we have received from the same quarter for some time past. It goes o show that, amongst certain sections of inluestial people even in Paris, there is a disposition to regard the recidiviste business with clear eyes, to count both cost and posregard the recidiviste business sibilities, and not to be led by blind prejudice to rush into a costly and difficult embroglio. At a most opportune moment, also, an article appeared in the Nouvelle Revue, from the pen of M. H. Dienis, formerly sub-director of the peniten-tiary administration at New Caledonis, which, we are told, has caused general surprise, not unmixed with horror-surprise at the use ness of the punishment for any purpose of reform, horror at the depths of degradation to which it sinks the prisoners, and at its extrava-gant cost. This article, coming from a Frenchman thoroughly conversant with the subject, and free of all unreasoning prejudice, has set Paris thinking. An echo has appeared in La France, an organ of advanced Republicanism, Anglophobist in the extreme, which, dealing with the Recidiviste Bill, culminates in this style :- "Condemned in principle, in the name of civilisation and penal law, as a barbarous expedient, it is rendered inappli-cable by its financial consequences, and threatens to create for us diplomatic embarrassments which we have no interest in multiplying in the midst of the difficulties which assail us in Europe and elsewhere. It is, therefore, easy to perceive that it will emain a dead letter."

Certainly we have never spoken in stronger terms in Australia; but it must be remem-bered that the denunciation of La France is not synonymous with the voice of La Repub-A truer notion of the probabilities is sained from a despatch sent by Lord Lyons to Earl GHANVILLE, a translation of which appears in M. CLEMENCEAU's organ Justice. This lespatch relates the substance of what took place at an interview between the British Ambassador and the French Premier, and though not so denunciatory as the article in La France, is promising of a careful consideration and of ultimate justice. M. Jules FERRY had a difficulty in understanding the fears of the colonists. It was not proposed, he said, to deluge New Caledonia with convicts; indeed, the recidivistes sent out would not be convicts. Lord Lyons replied that if he understood the projet de loi aright, the persons sent out would be worse than convicts in oversibles to check the than convicts, incorrigibles in short, and entrusted with a most dangerous measure of liberty; also, he was in doubt if, under existing treaties, it would be possible to extradite them should they effect a landing in Australia. Upon the first of these points M. FERRY appears to have been silent, upon the second, FERRY to back this desire to be just to England and her colonies, with another to do that which is best for France. M. DENIS, speaking with the authority of long personal experience, says there is no hope of reform in the New Caledonian scheme; and more, it is exceedingly costly. What, then, remains to recommend it? If it is merely desired to make an end of the recidivistes, the not unprecedented course of a battue might suffice; if reform is seriously contemplated, it can be better worked in well-guarded penitentiaries in the French home territory; and if economy is at all considered, the foreign establishment stands condemned because of its extreme costliness. The only opparent reason for the passing of the bill w is on the assumed right of each nation, as of each man, to do as it wills with its own, and the characteristic determination, in the teeth of all opposition and argument, to exercise that right which in so serious a matter will not be likely to prevail.

The Postmaster-General's report for 1883 shows an increased revenue and expenditure, and what is not pleasant to see is that the latter rises faster than the former. In 1882 the deficit on the The mere discussion of such a measure by the House of Commons is a proof how profoundly the recent agitations upon the question of land tenure in Ireland and England have affected political ideas. It is not many years since Mr. J. S. Mill could hardly years since Mr. H. Broadhunst's bill, upon the first time of its being brought forward, was accorded by the first time of its being brought forward, was accorded by the first time of its being brought forward, and tedious, the refreshment-rooms are always are uncomfortable, and a journey is at all during the current year. The sum is not a large one for the magnitude of the service, and recent arrangements in regard to European mails may pull down the expenditure aduring the current year. The commission on money-orders was £11,370; the expenditure was £14,531, or a balance of £3161 on the wrong side, and £1000 in excess of last year's deficit. After adding, from interest which accrued during the year £40,334 to depositors' accounts, there is a balance left which rather more than covers the deficit just named. The excess of expenditure over income is £93,580, which, as we have said, is about £13,000 greater than the excess of last year. Effect has not yet been given to the proposed reduction of intercolonnal telegraphic rates, because, as the Postmasture-General naively remarks, it will be miles travelled within the colony and the humber of letters carried are named in large figures, and on the whole the colony has a mail service which for magnitude is a little flattering. The proposal to establish an So'clock delivery will be pleasant to many persons. As things now are, one may have a letter delivered at his door in any one of several towns unwards. may have a letter delivered at his door in any one of several towns upwards of 300 miles from Sydney earlier than it can be had in Sydney or its suburbs. That is not the whole of the case, of course, but an earlier delivery in and near the metropolia will be a boon. With the above-named difference between revenue and extended the second of the second penditure it is hardly possible to ask for reduced rates in either branch of this department, unless it can be shown that a lower tariff means a proportionally larger trade.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Oun cablegrams yesterday led to the supposition that Oun cablegrams yesterday led to the supposition that France intended to carry on vigorous warlike operations against Madagascar. One of our messages this morning confirms that view. It is to the effect that France intends shortly to blockade the entire coast of Madagascar. A datachment of British troops has been ordered to support the British Resident in Zululand. At the banquet given by Australian colonists in London to the new Governor of Victoria, on Thursday, the Agonts-General were present. The Earl of Rosebery was also present. The federation of the colonies and the Recidiviste question appear to have been the principal subjects dealt with in the speeches. THE match commenced at Lord's Ground, London The match commenced at Lord's Ground, London, on Wednesday, between the Australian Eleven and Marylebone Club and Ground promises to result disastrously for our representatives. The home team won the tose, and going in first on a pair of fine weather wickets, made the enormous score of 465 for the loss of 0 wickets, A. G. Steel scoring 134, land W. G. Grace 101, and Barnes 95 not out. It must be stated that the Marylebone Club and Ground is a combination which embraces the best amateur and professional cricketing talent in the old country, so that the context really is one between England and Australia. Large as is the score made by the Englishmen, it is not a suras is the score made by the Englishmen, it is not a sur-prising one, for the turf at Lord's in fine dry weather is perhaps more favourable for the bateman than that of any other cricket ground in the world.

A RHETING of the Executive Council was held yesterday, at which the case of the condemned Frenchman, Cordini, who was sentenced to death at Denliiquin for the murder of a hawker, was again brought forward, in order that consideration might be given to a communication which had been received from Mr. Pennemunication which had been received from hit. Ar the conclusion of the Executive Council meeting yesterday a Cabinet meeting was held, at which, we believe, the subject of appointing a Judge of the District Court in the room of Mr. J. F. Josephson, resigned, was taken into consideration. We understand that the vacancy is to be filled by the appointment of Mr. A. P. Backhouse as a permanent District Court Judge. Mr. Backhouse will not take Mr. Josephson's place. Mr. District Court Judge Docker, we believe, will take Mr. Josephson's position, and Mr. Backhouse will fill Judge Docker's place; but Mr. Backhouse will continue to perform the duties he is now engaged in as an Acting District Court Judge intil Judge Dowling returns to the colony. Mr. Backhouse is at the present time acting for Mr. District Court Judge Forbes, who is filling the place of Judge Dowling during his absence. It will be accessary to appoint another temporary Judge of the District Court, but the Government has not yet determined upon that matter.

The sincerity of the Legislative Assembly in pro-fessing to be desirous to get on with business on a Friday was again tested yesterday, when the House sat for about two hours and a-haif, and wasted nearly the whole of the time upon an unnecessary motion for the adjournment. The only business done was the amend-ing of the Windsor Gas Company's Bill in Committee of the Whole, and the House was counted out shortly before 7 o'clock.

The chief value of the article in the Nouvelle Revue is that it will enable M. Franx to back this desire to be just to Engand and her colonies, with another to do that.

ABOUT a week ago Mr. R. B. Smith, M.L.A., received from Mr. F. Kerr, J.P., a resident in the district of the Bellingur River, a telegram informing him of a serious outbreak of typhoid fever there, and of the fact that outbreak of typhoid fever there, and of the fact that neither medical man nor skilled nurse was available. Mr. R. B. Smith brought the matter under the notice of the Colonial Secretary, who referred it to the health officer. Dr. Mackellar, and that gentleman authorised Dr. Casement, who resides at Kempsey, on the Mackesy, to visit the Bellinger and report upon the fever cases there. Dr. Casement reported the existence of several cases, and he was directed to place himself in constant communication with the residents. An application was made in Banco yesterday on behalf of the Oriental Bank, to set aside a writ of summons served upon Mr. Balfour, the manager, at the instance of the Under-Scoretary for Public Instruction, as nominal plaintiff, to recover £5000 deposited in the bank to the oredit of the Department of Public Instruction. The ground upon which the application was made was that, it consequence of certain telegrame which had been received from England, the business of the bank had ocessed, that its affairs were in Iquidation, and that Mr. Balfour could no longer be considered as acting in the capacity of manager, but rather as agent to the liquidator. Their Honors, after hearing argument, expressed a unanimous opinion that there was not sufficient evidence before them to lead to the conclusion that the bank was not carrying on business in Sydney, or that a writ of them to lead to the conclusion that the bank was not carrying on business in Sydney, or that a writ of summons served upon Mr. Balfour was not a proper service, They therefore dismissed the application. Some eight years since, owing to a disagreement with the local authorities of the Roman Catholic Church, Dr. Barsanti cessed to officiate publicly, and entered the Government service as one of the clerical staff in the Lands Department, which appointment he retained till a few weeks ago, when acting, we are informed, on authority from Rome, the Administrator of the archdolocese offered a position at St Joseph's, Newtown, which Dr. Barsanti accepted. The return to active priestly labours would appear to have overtaxed both the health and the energy of the rev. gentleman, for he was compelled to seek medical attention in St. Vincent's Hospital soon after reauming official duties. Why, it is just because New South Wales is democratic that the 'herole treatment' is possible there, and it is only with the growth of democracy that here also we are slowly approaching a time when the rights of property will be frankly sub-ordinated to the rights of humanity and the good of the body politic. At present such doctrine is 'unsound,' for in a society still essentially plutocratic we recognise—though it is not considered seemly so to express it—that a man may have a vested interest in poreoning his neighbours, and must not be proin possoning his neighbours, and must not be pro ted from doing so except upon adequate compensa

Mr. FAWCETT, the Postmaster-General of Great Britan, in replying to an address of congratulation presented at Salisbury, on April 9, to his father, on the attainment of his 91st birthday, referred to the friumphant majority in the House of Commons on the Reform Bill, and said this great measure of reform might be delayed, but it could not be arrested. As might be delayed, but it could not be arrested. As surely as the sun would rise to-morrow the day was coming when every householder, whether man or woman, who was not disqualified by crime or purperism, would be admitted to the right of citizen-ship, would be shield discussed to indicense the conpauperism, would be able directly to influence the destinies of this great empire, and would have a voice in deter-mining how the taxes taken from his or her hardly-won earnings should be speat. Mr. Fawestt thought the blotting out of the small constituencies was neither the biotting out of the small constituencies was nather desirable nor necessary. This was an ancient country, and it would not be well to ignore all the historical associations of the past by attempting to introduce a cut-and-dried system—as if representative institutions were about to be established for the first time. He had always been in favour of the principle of proportional representation, in support of which he believed there would be found a preponderance of public complicion.

Mn. Justice Day (says the Daily News) has decided that no captain has a right to flog or chastise a ceaman. Has a seaman the right to chastise a captain? The question is justified by an inquiry which has been held at Plymouth respecting the conduct of David Davies, master of the brigantine Dreadnought. Davies, while passing through the Straits of Messins, was so drunk that he endangered his vessel by giving orders which threw her almost on her beam ends. The crew took the liberty to disobey his commands, and, as a means of chartisement, after throwing the grog overboard, placed him in irons. When Davies regained his liberty he endeavoured to meet the charge of drunkenness by a plea of lilness. This, however, the Court refused to accept, and recommended that he should be suspended for six months. A case is reported in the Times of India, where, in giving his decision in a case of assault preferred by a calescie against the chief officer of a stamer, the Chief Presidency of Bombay is reported to have said that the defendant "ought to have known, and he (the magistrate) did not doubt for an instant that the defendant did know, that he had no right to strike anyone on board his vessel. M. Garrier Charmes takes up in the Journal des Debats the suggestion recently made by M. de Lessops in the Nouvelle Revus to patronies the King of Abysinia. M. Charmes advises the French Govarnment at once to occupy the island of Dessi, which commands Aduli's Bay, and to make use of that important strategical and political point to enter into relations with Abysitia, or to watch with the sid of French cruisers the whole eastern coast of the Red Sea. This "act of pre-caution and preservation would be understood in London, and would certainly produce a great effect." "The English." the writer adds, "must know that without wishing to oppose their legitimate undertakings, the French cannot, even when they are extending their conquests in Asia, let themselves be completely expelled from the Red Sea." France would become the support and protector of Abyssinia, would endeavour to obtain an outlet for her to the sea, and "afford the resources ahe needs to fulfil her historical role." M. ## THE AUSTRALIAN ELEVEN IN ENGLAND.

(REUTER'S SPECIAL TELEGRAM.)

LONDON, MAY 22. The fourth match played by the Australian team in England was commenced at Lord's to-day, against the Marylebone Club and ground. The recent per-formances of the Australians caused an immense amount of interest to be taken in the present match, the progress of which was witnessed to-day by an anormous number of speciators, estimated at several fine, and entirely favourable for cricket. An excellent pitch was selected, the ground being in first-class order.

The home team, captained by W. G. Grace, was composed as follows:—W. G. Grace, J. D. Walker, J. G. Walker, C. T. Studd, A. G. Steel, T. C. O'Brice, Barnes, Flowers, Sherwin, and Woolf. W. G. Grace hav-ing won the tess, decided to bat, he and S. D. Walker being the first representatives. A considerable stand was made before a separation was effected, both men batting well. Walker made 22 before he was caught. He was succeeded by J. G. Walker, one of the Oxford eleven of last year, who only made 9 when he was caught. Studd followed, and fell a speedy victim, only making 2, being caught. Grace, who continued to add runs, was then joined by Steel, and a magnificent display of batting ensure The batemen completely mastered the bowling of the Avetralians, despite numerous changes, and they ken up their wickets for several hours. Grace played in his best style, and put 101 together before he was finally given out leg before wicket. On Barnes joining Steel another prolonged stand was made, the bowling being hit in all directions. Steel's performance was even superior to that of Grace, and was immensely applauded, He made 134 in splendid style, when in running out to a ball he was stumped. Barnes and O'Brien then got together, and zuns continued to come freely, the bowling of the Australians proving unable to effect a separation for a con time. O'Brien was finally caught for 75 towards the end of the day. After this the wickets began to fall rapidly. Flowers was bowled for 0, Rotherham (Warwickshire) was caught for 1, and immedistely afterwards Woolf was bowled for 0. Sherwis then joined Barnes, who continued to score freely, and shortly afterwards time was called, Barnes carrying out his bat for 95, Sherwin 5. ### BANQUET TO THE GOVERNOR OF VICTORIA, LONDON, MAY 23. A complimentary banquet tendered to Sir H. B. Loch, the newly-appointed Governor of Victoria, by Australian colonists in London, was held last night, and proved a great success. There were 200 leading colonists present, and the company also included a number of the nobility. The Agents-General of the colonies were present, with the exception of Sir F. Dillon Bell and Sir Arthur Blyth, Agents-General for New Zealand and South Australia respectively. The Earl of Rosebery presided. In proposing the toast of the guest of the evening, he dwelt in terms of high eulogy upon the tried services of Sir H. B. Loch, and urged the necessity of promoting the unity of the empire, while he also pointed out, with some emphasis, that it was the duty of a colonial Governor to draw closer the bonds of Imperial union. He hoped that Sir B. Loch would receive peremptory directions from the Government respe the French recidiviste question, couched in a spirit of accord and aspiration towards the colonies. Lord Hosebery denied that there was any political school hostile to the colonies. Sir H. B. Loch, in replying, said that the problem how to maintain connection between the colonies and the mother country required early and care-ful consideration. He believed that the closer the ties the better it would be for the welfare and happiness of the Empire. He promised to use unceasing exertions to encourage sentiments of affection and confidence in the colonies generally towards the mother country. In conclusion, Sir H. B. Loch pro-posed the toast "Prosperity to the Colonies." ir Saul Samuel, Agent-General for New South Wales, replied to the toast, and affirmed that the colonies were already united by the best ties, but expressed the opinion that the present time was unripe for Imporial federation. Mr. R. Murray Smith, Agent-General for Victoria, also responded, and said that personally he was esuguine of early federation. Bishop Kennion and the majority of the members of the Synod admitted the need for the establishment of schools where religious instruction would be imported; but he was of opinion that passing a bold resolution would do no good, and it was accordingly withdrawn. The determination of the General Synod relating to the trial of bishops was rejected. Objection was taken to the clause providing that charges of false doctrine should be preferred against an offending bishop by a brother bishop. The ecclesisatical relations of the Northern Territory, which is not included in the boundaries of the Adelaide diooses, was discussed, on a letter from the Primate suggesting that, although the territory was technically under his control, it should be looked after by our Bishop. [BY TELEGRAPH.] (FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.) MELBOURNE, FRIDAY.

The hearing of the petition to wind up the Oriental The nearing of the petition to wing up sue Orienza. Bank in Victoria was resumed to-day in the Equity Court, before Mr. Justice Molesworth. Dr. Madden, for petitioner, took up the arguments after the address from Mr. Topp on the previous day, and contended that the Court had jurisdiction to wind up the bank as an unregistered company under the Companies Statute, 1864, as it carried on business in Companies Scattle, 1804, as it carried on outsiness in Victoris, had assets here, and shareholders resident in the colony; that there was no legal evidence of there being any winding up ordered in Eegland; and even if there were, that would not out the jurisdiction of the Court here. He urged that the English liquidator could not put in force the powers of the Court to realise the assets as a local liquidator could, and that the assets could be more chasply realised under the direction of the Court here than by an English liquidator. Mr. Webb, Q.C., for the Oriental Bank Corporation, said that the counsel for the petitioner had shirked the question under lying the whole of their argument, that the local assets were to be for the benefit of the local creditors. His Honor: The order to wind up here will secure the property not exclusively for the benefit of the creditors in the colony, but for the creditors eny-creditors in the colony, but for the creditors anywhere.

Mr. Webb, continuing, argued that whatever court, having jurisdiction to do it, made an order for the winding up, the whole of the assets all over the world would be administered by that court. They could not have a dozen windings up, for the personality rested in the first liquidator appointed, and there was nothing left for the liquidator to take, It was altogether inconsistent with the idea of an equal distribution that there should be a dozen winding up, because if there could be a winding up in Victoria there could be once in Sydaey, one at Hongkong, and so on. If the Victorian Court one at Hongkong, and so on. If the Victorian Courthad jurisdiction over the assets here, the assets all over the world would rest in the liquidator which the Victorian Court appointed. That was the logical outcome of the petition. A bank, however man branches it had, was but one institution, and it was im possible to wind up the affairs of one branch without taking regard to all the branches. A man might have an account at the Sydney branch and also at the Mel-bourne branch, and in the case of winding up the relative dition of his two accounts would have to be con It would be unfair to say that whilst one branch owe him money, he should have to prove for it, whilst he had to contribute 20s. in the £ to liquidate a liability to another branch. His Honor: "He would be allowed credit in reference to the branch at which his account was in reservoice to the ornand as which has account was in credit." Mr. Webb: "Not if you have two liquidators." His Honor: "The Courts may see to that." Mr. Webb: "You may have a dozon different windings up." His Honor: "Well, the liability of the debtor and creditor administered in one place could have reference to the transactions in every pi Mr. Webb: "Which place is it to be administe His Honor: "Wherever you can catch the assets Mr. Webb: "Or the liabilities?" His Honor: "A persons having claims would be entitled, wheth resident here or elsewhere, to have claims administered to." Mr. Webb: "The would be that every craditor would have to travel the world over to prove his debt, in about a dozen places." Itis Honor: "No: he can prove at the place where he expects to find the assits. When the accounts are adjusted it will be seen how he stands." Mr. Webb, proceeding, said that he did not see there was any danger such as property. The property was conserved in the in-terests of all, and the liquidators in England had as much right to bold the property here as any person would in whom it was vested. It might be true that the English Court could not stop an execution here; but the executing creditor would be informed of the existence of the trust, and would pro ceed at his own rick. He further argued, that if the ceed at his own rick. He further argued, that if the Court had jurisdiction it ought not to exercise it, for the object of the Companies Statute was to deal with companies registered here, and also having their head offices here. The corporation had no power to carry on business out of London, except by power of attorney, and it was an inexact expression to call the office here a branch, as the officials in Victoria were mere agents. The corporation was not a company here within the meaning of the Act. The preparity was professed under the English The property was protected under the English ation. His Honor: "If there is such a thing." liquidation. His Honor: "If there is such a thing."
Mr. Webb replied that there was, and that the Court would be justified in accepting a telegram to that effect.
If his Honor refused to take that evidence, then they must apply for an adjournment. The proceedings were eventually adjourned until Thursday next.

THE EMPLOYMENT OF BARMAIDS. IBY TELEGRAPH. (PROM OUR OWS CORRESPONDENT.)

MELBOURNE PRIDAY. A special report from the Shops Commission on the subject of the employment of barmaids was presented to his Excellency the Acting Governor to-day. The report, which is signed by Meers. W. C. Smith (chairman), W. Andersen, G. W. Hall, J. Woods, and J. Gardiner, Ma LaA, and James Munro, expresses the opinion that any measures which may be submitted to Parliament, having for their object the amendment of the licensing laws, will fail to remove many of the or the licensing laws, will fail to remove many of the existing evila associated with the liquor traffic unless they deal effectively with the employment of barmaids in hotels and public-houses. A considerable amount of evidence which was adduced on the subject has proved to the commissioners that barmaids are not essential to the public convenience. the subject has proved to the commissioners has bermidie are not essential to the public convenience, and that their employment involves social consequences often most disastrous. They are not employed in several of the principal hotels in the metropolis, and the proprieters in those cases appear to transact more extensive and legitimate business without them. In the majority of instances barmaids remain in attendance from 14 to 16 hours a day, and their salaries only average from 10s. to 15s. weekly. They are sometimes employed as decoys, and, on evidence which must be accepted as authoritative, it is averred that the ranks of fallen woman in the metropolis are largely recruited from the class of girls who serve in bars. Many of the hotels in Melbourne, some of them situated in leading thoroughfares, have been described as trothels in disguire. There seems, in the opinion of the commissioners, to be only effectual means of remedying the abuses in connection with the employment of young the abuses in connection with the employment of young women in hotels, namely, the absolute prohibition o of the system of employing barmaids.

MELBOURNE BETTING MARKET.
MELBOURNE, FRIDAY.

For the Nydney Birthday Cup. Leavis remains firm at 4 to 1 offered, 7 to 1 against Lord Cliftden and Commet, 8 to 1 against Jessen. For Adelaide Birthday Cup, King of the Vale came in for some support to-day, a few hundreds being taken about him at 4 to 1; Guesswork was taken at 7 to 1.

BOURKE JOUREY CLUB RACES.

BOURKE FRIDAY.

The annual race meeting of the Bouke Jockey Club commenced yeaterday. The rights to the gates, booths, &c., sold for a total of £319 lbs., very much less than hast year, on secount of the bad times. The day was overcest, but calm, and the attendance was much more numerous than expected. The present standard was crowded, and the others were all well patronised. The course was in splendid order, and there was a complete absence of rowdyian and gambling. The bothmakers were very numerous and successual. Wellongoing and Figure were made her favourities for the Central Australian Handkeap, all the available money being takes on short odds. The interest was not piaced, and the former was that.

Shearer also started and was on nearly level terms to within a few yards of the winning-post, when he swerved away to the saddling paddock.

LADIES BRACKLET, 2 sove. each. 30 sovs. added, and a 250 trophy presented by Mesers Feidheim, Gottheif, and Co. 1 mile and a distance. Kingswood won by half a length, without whip or spur. A pretty race. There were 10 starters.

The general entry for the Mudgeo Tattersell's Club Races, to take place on the 4th and 5th of June, closed last tight, and is very good. There are 17 entries for the Opening Hamicap, 12 for the Ladies Eracelet, 19 for the shorts Hamicap, 13 for the Railway Purse Hamicap, 17 for the Flying Hamicap, 18 for the Railway Purse Hamicap, 17 for the Flying Hamicap, 6 for the Free of Wele's Stakes, 18 for the District Purse Hamicap, and 24 for the Free Hamicap. The committee are working hard to make the meeting e success, among other things they are making considerable improvements to the course.

The others starters were Herbert, Inglesides, Claverley, and Sapoleon. Hubert showed in front from the first, but rods round the first hurdles. Claverly fell at the first hurdle and broke his fetlock. Inglesides led past the stand the second time when he swerved off, when Hubert took the lead and came in first. A protest was entered against the large of the second of missing the first hurdle. The project layer was the second of considerations.

The other starters were Latuna, Oles, and Cassandra. Cround jumped off with the lead, which he meintained right through with ridiculous case. Time, 1 minutes 44 saccode.
